EU GDPR IN BRIEF

EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) came into effect on May 2018 after two-year transition time.

All the organizations and companies that handle personal data of EU residents are under the regulation. GDPR regulates which data may be saved, how to manage the data and how data's lifecycle should be managed.

COVERAGE OF GDPR

GDPR covers not only new data but also existing data. In some cases GDPR has been considered regulation for information security only or in most extreme interpretations only management of log files (e.g. SIEM or IAM). In practice GDPR comprises of four entities:

- Regulation / legal view
- Communication/ Applications/Processes
- Information security
- Data management

In GDPR common sense is allowed to use. #UseYourCommonSense
